

Do you have a bird feeder?

Golden Gate Audubon's Christmas Bird Count wants YOU!

Take part in our 77th annual Oakland-area Christmas Bird Count on Sunday December 17, 2017. Spend as little as a half hour watching and recording the birds that visit your feeder.

You can do it from the comfort of your house!
Your observations will help scientists understand trends in bird populations, allowing us to better protect these beautiful creatures.

The December 17th count is free and open to people living in parts of Oakland, Berkeley, Albany, Alameda, Orinda, Moraga, and Lafayette.

Other areas have counts on other days.

For information and a tally sheet, contact Bob Lewis at RLewis0727@aol.com or the Audubon office at (510) 843-2222. Let us know your address so we can confirm if you live within our count circle.

More information at goldengateaudubon.org/cbc.

Chestnut-backed Chickadee by BirdieMama